

Change our world for the better. Change yours too.

Climate Coordinator

Fixed term to 31 March 2025 | Salary: £29,206 | 35 hours per week | Based Stirling

Interested in joining us? Fantastic!

Let us tell you what we're about, what we can offer and what we're looking for.

If it sounds like you (and you like the sound of us), then tell us more about yourself: email us your CV and attach a word document that explains why you'd like to work for us and what you can bring to the role (500 words max) we will need both by midnight 5th of November.

But if you're not sure, talk to us anyway.

All our projects are about fulfilling potential and we feel the same about our people too. So, don't worry if you don't have everything on our wish list. Everyone brings different qualities and we just might be looking for yours.

Who we are

We're experts in helping communities live more sustainably – making social and environmental change happen, project by project, so people and our planet can thrive.

We believe powerful change can be simple to make: small steps everyone can take to make their own lives better can help our world towards a healthier, more sustainable future too.

We make that change happen project by project. Each one we run focuses on the things that matter to those they support across our core themes of Climate, Travel, Food, People, Nature and Sharing.

But we never tell anyone what to do. We meet people where they're at. We show communities what's possible. We help them figure out what works best for them. And we give them the skills and confidence they need to make good things happen.

That's how we're changing our world for the better, project by project. It's how we help people; communities and our planet thrive.

What we do: Our projects

Our projects are making change happen – showing people how to take everyday steps that help them, their communities and the planet. Whether they just need a little support or don't know where to start, we get them going and keep them moving. Our projects are inclusive, engaging, educational and fun. They let people learn, achieve and make positive change with lasting effects. Step by step. Project by project.

What we offer

We treat our people like the communities we serve: we want to help them thrive. So, we offer competitive salaries, up to 35 days leave a year including Bank and Public Holidays, and an attractive pension scheme. We're family-friendly, with generous maternity pay and family leave provision, flexible working opportunities and a commitment to helping everyone achieve the work-life balance they need. We're inclusive too, promoting diversity and prioritising equality for all. We offer professional and personal training, support volunteering and provide access to counselling services. And, of course, we have a cycle to work scheme to help you travel sustainably and stay healthy.

What you'll do

As our Climate Coordinator, you'll play a key role in helping people make changes to the way they live that will be good for them and good for the planet. You'll be focused on helping our climate hub team enable the development of climate action hubs and networks in the Forth Valley and Loch Lomond and Trossachs National Park region, as part of the Scottish Government's plan to create a national network of centres that support communities in taking climate action.

You'll also work with FEL partners to unlock investment and kick-start new initiatives around environmental sustainability and tackling climate change. You'll lead a small team looking after volunteer recruitment, support and retention for the new hubs, and will occasionally be needed to work evenings or weekends. Your base will be at our main Stirling offices but there'll be potential for home working and some need to visit our hubs across the Forth Valley.

What we're looking for

We're a diverse bunch at FEL and welcome applications from people of all backgrounds. What we all have in common, though, is a commitment to changing lives and protecting the planet. So we're looking for someone with that same determination to make a difference and who shares our values too – we're grounded and practical, creative and influential, collaborative and connected.

This is a key role for us so you'll need at least three years' experience of coordinating projects and managing people, as well as good knowledge and experience of the community and voluntary sectors, community engagement and development, and the climate and nature emergency. If you can add delivering small grant funding and managing volunteers to that list, even better.

We'll want you to be an excellent communicator and super-organised, great at planning, budgeting and managing relationships too. Solid IT skills and knowledge of Microsoft Office programs are another must, and you'll need to be able to work flexibly, to tight deadlines and both on your own initiative and as part of a team.

Enthusiasm and commitment are essential to every role at FEL, and we're also looking for decision makers, problem solvers and creative thinkers who are energetic, pro-active and always happy to get their hands dirty – often literally!

FEL expects all employees and volunteers to share its commitment to safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children and vulnerable adults.
